

Truman Will Name Bowles' Successor When He Gets OPA

Efforts to Solve Price Control Problem Hit Temporary Lull

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—A successor to Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles will be named by President Truman, the chief executive said today, when he can get an OPA law under which a successor can function.

Asked at his news conference whether he thinks he will get such a law from congress, he told a reporter, your guess is as good as mine.

Efforts are underway on Capitol Hill to work out a law revising price control to substitute for the legislation the president recently vetoed. However, there was a temporary lull in these efforts today.

Rise Follows Collapse

Mr. Truman said rising prices—he called them substantial—had followed the collapse of price control and predicted they would go higher unless controls are reinstated.

Senator Barkley (Ky.), the Democratic leader, told reporters a show-down on attempts to write a compromise price control bill that President Truman will sign is unlikely before tomorrow.

Yesterday's session of the senate-house conference committee considering the measure produced a lot of talk and no little confusion. It finally broke up for lack of a quorum as senators drifted away to debate a bill proposing a constitutional amendment to guarantee women equal rights with men.

That debate goes on today.

Study Silver Question

Also, before the conferees can get back to the subject of OPA they planned another effort to break a week's long deadlock over senate-house differences on the price of silver. A prior engagement will keep Barkley away from any afternoon OPA session. Hence prospects are dim for an agreement today.

No votes were taken yesterday on any part of the senate bill, which Truman has hinted strongly he will veto if it lands on his desk.

Senate Issue Casts Big Domestic Cloud

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—Some married senators may be afraid to go home tonight.

Up for debate was a proposed constitutional amendment requiring that women be accorded "equality of rights under the law." Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.) (married), leading the floor fight for approval, told reporters all he wanted was a vote on the issue, which he said has been before congress "for many, many years."

Senator Andrews (D-Fla.) (also married), served notice that he has a 28-page "brief" of arguments against the proposed amendment. Half a dozen other opponents also promised to have something to say.

Senator Murdock (D-Utah) (likewise M.) protested that the amendment would upset or at least cloud the thousands of laws of the 48 states intended to protect women as mothers and workers.

Such laws, Murdock said, are intended to "discriminate against men" in favor of women. And he added that this was proper and right. He mentioned that most of these laws make it the responsibility of the husband and father to support the family.

Radcliffe and 23 co-sponsors introduced the proposal at the start of the present session. A two-thirds majority in both the senate and house is required before submission to the 48 states. Then three-fourths of them must approve.

Visitor Drowns in River at Sterling

Carlton Bolter, 17, Indianapolis, Ind., drowned yesterday afternoon in an 18-foot channel near the fish chute of the power dam across Rock river at Rock Falls. His body was recovered about a half hour later and efforts of rescuers to revive him were futile.

Bolter was visiting with relatives at Sterling, and went to the river to swim yesterday afternoon, with a group of several other boys. When he plunged into the water and failed to come to the surface, one of his companions ran three blocks to summon Rock Falls fire department members. The body was recovered about 4:30 yesterday afternoon and was removed to the Melvin funeral home where Coroner C. M. Frye will conduct an inquest this afternoon. The youth had been the guest of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Meier, Rubin court and Fourth avenue, Sterling.

Resumption of Full Scale Civil War Is Imminent in China

Nanking, July 18.—(AP)—Rival Chinese government and communist armies were on the march along the mighty Yangtze river today and clashes north of this vital artery of China posed a threat of full-scale civil war.

Gen. Chou en-Lai, leader of the communist delegation in Nanking, charged the government with "aggressions" and told a press conference "local conflicts are blossoming rapidly into civil war."

Peng Hsueh-Pei, minister of information, denied this and asserted that communist armies instead were marching from the north upon the Yangtze, along whose banks lie Nanking and the great port of Shanghai.

"If we permit them to advance to the Yangtze unopposed," Peng declared, "we had better start considering moving the capital back to Chungking." (war-time capital in western China.)

General Marshall, special U. S. envoy, flew to the summer capital at Kuling to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and presumably gave him the latest account of the deteriorating situation.

Smart Presents Credentials

His headquarters said only that Marshall was accompanying Dr. John Leighton Stuart, new United States ambassador, who will present his credentials to the generalissimo. Marshall is expected to return to Nanking within two or three days to resume the deadlocked negotiations.

There was an ominous quiet in Manchuria, but from reports pouring in little remained in China proper of last January's cease-fire agreement which Marshall hoped to use as a foundation for a permanent peace.

Lewis Secures New Toehold in Mining Industry's Affairs

Government Agrees to Union Control of Supervisors at J & L

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—A government-granted wage agreement covering 136 mine supervisors gave John L. Lewis a new toehold today in the soft coal industry.

It means that Lewis and his United Mine Workers (AFL) have won the first contract specifying supervisors' wages and working conditions ever negotiated in the industry's history.

Mine owners for years have resisted all attempts to enter into union contracts applicable to supervisors on the contention that supervisors represent management.

In recent weeks the operators sought unsuccessfully to restrain the government from entering into such an agreement. The mines still are under federal ownership as a result of the seizure order which grew out of the two-month bituminous strike this spring.

The agreement signed by Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug and Adm. Ben C. Moreell, coal mines administrator, stipulates that it is to be voided in event the courts should hold the government acted improperly.

Is Test for Industry

However, the coal industry views as inevitable that Lewis will insist on the operators' accepting, once they resume ownership, all the terms and conditions which existed during government seizure.

The agreement announced last night applies only to the 136 supervisors at four mines of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation in western Pennsylvania, the Vesta No. 4, 5 and 6 and the Shannopin mine at California, Pa.

The National Labor Relations Board ruled several months ago that the United Electrical, Technical & Supervisory Employees Union of UMW district 50 was the proper bargaining agent for these employees. J. & L. resisted the decision and moved to contest it in the courts.

Only a relatively few supervisors were affected in the J. & L. case, but it was regarded as a test for the industry. There are an estimated 65,000 to 75,000 supervisors of all types. The new agreement, however, exempts "general assistant mine foremen" pending a further NLRB decision.

Legislation Considered

J. & L. supervisors covered in the pact were granted a $1.85 daily pay boost plus a $25 increase in vacation pay. Krug and Moreell signed two other agreements covering clerical and technical employees of J. & L. and the Industrial Collieries Corp., Johnstown, Pa., a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel. These workers were given the same 18½-cent hourly increase granted Lewis' coal miners under an earlier government-union agreement.

Buy Site for New Auto Sales Rooms

Kenneth A. Rubey, today announced the purchase of two residence properties on East First street and west of Crawford avenue for an undisclosed sum, which eventually will be converted to a modern automobile sales rooms and service station. The two properties on the south side of East First street were owned by Carl Peterson and Mrs. Ada B. Huyell.

The new owner contemplates removal of the present residence properties eventually and when building materials become available. In place he plans to build a modern structure 56-90 which will house the agency for Packard cars and tire shop as well as a service station. The plans provide for entrances to the building from Crawford avenue and First street and on the west side of the proposed structure, the new owner will maintain a fine parking lot.

Reaction Continues in Cattle and Hog Markets of U.S. Today

Chicago, July 18.—(AP)—Both hog and cattle prices declined sharply today with reports from Washington of possible restored OPA controls over food products. Pork animals were generally $1.50 to $2.50 a hundred pounds lower and beef items 50 cents to $1.50 lower.

Big packers resisted recent high prices with low bids in anticipation of having to move finished meat at ceiling prices if OPA were revived. Receipts continued to slacken at terminal markets but still were unseasonably heavy, traders observed.

These influences coupled with consumer resistance to high-priced pork at retail placed a top of $20.00 a hundred pounds on live weights, compared with a modern record top of $22.00 set yesterday before pressure struck the market about mid-session.

Choice steers at Union Stockyards were sold no higher than $25.65 a hundredweight today, but yesterday were $26.35, highest for all time. The OPA ceiling was $18.00.

Today's receipts at Chicago were 15,000 salable hogs and 9,000 packinghouse consignments, compared with an estimated 15,000 and 11,000 respectively a week ago. A year ago actual receipts were 4,499 head.

Sioux City, Ia., again led all markets in numbers with 25,000 hogs on sale. Omaha, Neb., and Indianapolis, Ind., had 12,000 each, and St. Paul, Minn., 10,000.

A dozen western markets had 126,400 estimated on sales today, 91,900 yesterday, 102,256 a week ago, and 40,914 a year ago.

Omaha led the cattle market with 11,500 and Chicago was next with 11,000. Total for the 12 terminals today was 67,200, compared with 74,100 yesterday, 36,885 a week ago, and 25,148 a year ago.

NorthWestern Line Made Defendant in New Damage Suit

The Chicago & NorthWestern railroad was named as defendant in a $10,000 damage suit for the second time this month here this morning when Mrs. Ethel C. Nass filed a suit in Lee county Circuit court here charging negligence and carelessness in the railroad's operation of trains at the Richardson avenue crossing in Ashton Nov. 20, 1945, when the road's streamliner, City of Los Angeles, struck a car there, killing Oscar Nass and William G. Henert.

Mrs. Mollie K. Henert, administratrix of Henert's estate, filed her suit here July 5, listing the same charges and asking $10,000 damages. Both plaintiffs are represented by the law firm of Warner & Warner.

The complaint alleges that the streamliner was going approximately 80 miles per hour when it struck the car containing the two men at the crossing at 3 p. m. A long freight train, according to the complaint, had just been parked by the railroad on the south tracks, with the engine approximately 60 feet west of the crossing. This, the plaintiff alleges, obstructed the view of the men as they approached the crossing. The freight's noise, it is further alleged, covered the sound of the approaching streamliner.

Charges No Sound Heard

The complaint also charges that no 30-pound bell or steam whistle was sounded by the streamliner's crew as it approached the crossing.

Mrs. Nass also seeks $1,000, the estimated value of the car destroyed in the crash.

In another Circuit court action, Bernard Reuter, 521 East Chamberlain street, Dixon, through his attorney, William Gunner, has filed an appeal growing out of eviction proceedings brought by Howard G. Smith, 305½ Monroe avenue, owner of the premises occupied by Reuter.

Demos Outdraw GOP in Montana's Election

Helena, Mont. July 18.—(AP)—Democrats polled more than two and one-half times as many votes as Republicans in Montana's primaries Tuesday, a still incomplete unofficial tabulation indicated today.

In nominating 40-year-old Lief Erickson to run for the senate, the Democrats gave the former Supreme court justice 47,828 votes in 1,018 or 1,156 precincts.

Burton K. Wheeler, 64-year-old senate veteran who conceded yesterday, received 41,912 votes in the same precincts, for a total of 89,740.

This compared with a total of 32,453 votes cast in 1,027 precincts for Zales N. Ecton, Manhattan rancher and state senator, and R. E. Sken, Billings brakeman, in the Republican senate primary. Ecton won handily, 1,027 precincts giving him 21,330 votes to 11,123 for Sken.

"New Evidence" in War Profits Probe is Disclosed Today

Delays Committee's Decision on What to Do About May

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—The senate war profits investigating committee reported today that it has uncovered "new evidence" in its war profits inquiry into a midwest munitions combine.

The "new evidence" delayed a committee decision on what steps it might take in hailing Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee before it for a public explanation of his activities in connection with the combine.

The committee met for more

Protected

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Hall, a witness in senate's war profits inquiry, said today she had been given police protection after receiving "mysterious telephone calls" last night.

Mrs. Hall testified yesterday before the senate war investigating committee about operations of the Washington office of a mid-western munitions firm from which formerly employed her as secretary.

She told reporters she had not requested police protection but understood that committee Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) didn't want me to be molested. A detective came to her suburban home, she added and told her the house "would be watched and I would be perfectly safe."

than an hour behind closed doors for a "general discussion" of possible steps.

Two written invitations already have been sent to him by Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) to appear "voluntarily." But he has laid down conditions for that appearance—among them the right to cross-examine witnesses and summon records—which the committee has refused to accept.

May has acknowledged that he aided the Illinois industrial combine during the war years, but has insisted that aid was for the war effort alone, and has denied that he profited personally.

Asked About $3,000

Yesterday the committee heard testimony that he once asked an official of the combine: "What about that $3,000?"

At the close of today's executive session, Francis Flanagan of committee counsel announced the discovery of the new evidence, but flatly refused to disclose to reporters even an "inkling" of its nature or who it involved.

He acknowledged that it might involve the reopening of public hearings.

Mead, who brought public hearings to a tumultuous end yesterday.

CPA Orders Hard-to-Get Goods Out

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—The government set out today to squeeze hard-to-get goods like washing machines and refrigerators out of factory stockrooms and into retail stores.

At the same time it stood ready to man the export gates against a possible outgoing flood of shipments to foreign buyers who never heard of OPA ceilings.

The factory-to-main-street order was issued by the Civilian Production Administration last night in fear that some manufacturers might be tempted by the current OPA uncertainty to hold back their finished products in the hope of getting higher prices.

The anti-hoarding order covers refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, washers, sewing machines, electric ranges, electrical appliances, galvanized ware, bedding products, photographic equipment, and certain scarce building materials.

Manufacturers are forbidden to keep on hand more than 30 days' output of those items, or a "practical minimum working inventory," whichever is less.

Reconstruction of Great Dnepr Dam in Russia Progresses

Dnepr Dam, July 15.—(DE-LAYED)—(AP)—Russians working on the largest single reconstruction job in postwar Europe hope, with the help of American equipment, to start producing electricity from the restored Dnepr river dam by next December.

However, Feodor Loginov, in charge of the giant reconstruction project, said American firms were charging double prewar prices for some electrical units and that Russia might have to obtain the equipment elsewhere unless some sort of price agreement were effected.

"At that rate of bargaining, they are trying to take our clothes off," Loginov said at special press conference for the first group of foreign correspondents to visit the dam since it was blown up in 1941.

Some American equipment already has arrived here, he said, but if United States firms continue to ask high prices, the Soviet Union may manufacture much of the material which she had hoped to purchase from America. He added that some equipment may be brought from Britain because the United States cannot meet certain orders within a year.

Working 33 Months

For the last 33 months, Russian workmen have been at work on the dam and hydro-electric development—greatest in Russia—after the Russians themselves and then the Germans took turns in wrecking it.

A peak of 14,000 persons have been employed on the project. Many of them were unexperienced collective farmhands when they first started work here. Approximately two out of five were women and girls.

The correspondents found that the main structure of the dam had been fully restored. They walked across the top of the huge structure and drove in automobiles through tunnel roads excavated in the rock.

Student Charged With Murder of Navy Veteran

Pinckneyville, Ill., July 18.—(AP)—State's Attorney Harold O. Farmer said today Coroner Eugene Gladson has signed a warrant charging Gene H. Sutton, 16 year old high school athlete, with murdering Lloyd Broha, 20, a navy veteran whose death has been cloaked in mystery for 40 days.

Farmer said the charge was filed after the boy, described as a brilliant pupil, signed a confession that he drove Broha to a country school house and choked the older youth for making what the state's attorney termed "a proposal."

Farmer added that Sutton admitted in his statement that he then drove the unconscious Broha to a point three miles on the other side of Pinckneyville and placed the veteran's body in the shallow water of a ditch.

A coroner's jury held that Broha drowned after his body was "placed" in the ditch, and that a laboratory examination of Broha's stomach showed choral hydrate (knockout drops).

Long Investigation of Degnan Case is Believed Near End

Reports of Impending Confession by Heirens Persist in Chicago

BULLETIN

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—William Heirens' attorneys examined the scene of the kidnapping-slaying of Suzanne Degnan today, indicating preparations for a possible court defense of their client on that charge.

Published reports that a deal still was in the making whereby Heirens would confess formally to three slayings in return for the state's recommendation for a life sentence instead of the electric chair were discounted today by the Herald-American which said:

"All horse trading for a pre-trial settlement of the fate of William Heirens, the schizophrenic murder suspect, was abandoned today and opposing counsel began preparing for a judge and jury trial."

State's Attorney William J. Tuohy and Heirens' lawyers would not comment on reports a "deal" was suggested or considered.

Chicago, July 18.—(AP)—The seven months investigation of the kidnapping-killing of Suzanne Degnan, which for the last three weeks has centered on William Heirens, appeared nearing a climax today as reports persisted that the young college student was to make a formal written confession of the crime.

The five major Chicago newspapers have published reports that the confession is the next step, in a reported understanding between defense and prosecuting attorneys, with the state to recommend a life sentence instead of the death penalty.

State's Attorney William J. Tuohy and counsel for Heirens have reiterated that the youth has not yet made a confession. The Chicago newspapers have reported Heirens had "talked," and orally admitted the kidnapping-killing of the six-year-old Degnan child and two other slayings. Some of the reports said the youth made the disclosures while under the influence of sodium pentothal, the so-called "truth serum."

Psychiatrist Quotes Youth

Tuohy continued to deny knowledge of the "truth serum," but Dr. William Haines, head of the Cook county Behavior Clinic and one of the three psychiatrists who examined Heirens in the Bridewell jail hospital on June 29, quoted the youth as saying yesterday, "They put one over on me with this truth serum."

Chief Justice Harold G. Ward of Criminal court, before whom Heirens is to be arraigned Aug. 14 on 29 charges of burglary and assault.

Tap Hughes' Lung as Condition Gets Better

Los Angeles, July 18.—(AP)—A medical bulletin on the condition of Howard Hughes, issued early today, said that it was found necessary last night to tap Hughes' left chest and remove more than a quart of fluid.

Hughes suffered a cracked lung and other injuries when an airplane he was flying crashed July 7.

Shortage of Cars Keeping Midwest's Grain From Market

Two Factors Produce Crisis in Central States Territory

Chicago, July 18.—(AP)—Much greater quantities of grain would be moving to market from the Midwest if sufficient railroad box cars were available, grain trade sources said today.

Two factors have combined to produce an acute box shortage in the central states, grain experts said. These are:

1. Buyers are remanding immediate shipment of wheat and corn for fear that a revived OPA will roll back prices to their former ceilings.
2. Many box cars have been moved to the southwest to transport the large winter wheat crop in that area. This has left a smaller supply in midwest states.

supply and demand, the Illinois Central Railroad said it had calls for 700 box cars from country elevators yesterday and could supply only 220.

The Rock Island said loadings were slowing down in the south west but "we are having some trouble getting enough cars on lines west of Omaha to Denver. Officials said there is no grain on the ground along the road's right-of-way but "there is grain on the ground on farms adjacent to the Rock Island."

Ground Storage Dangerous

Storing grain on the ground is considered dangerous by experts as it can be damaged by rains or field animals.

Country elevators are anxious to send grain to market because prices have risen sharply since termination of the OPA. Corn is selling around $2.25 a bushel against an OPA maximum of $1.46 1/2, and wheat at $2.10 against $1.97.

All sales contracts, however, contain a clause stating they are subject to cancellation or readjustment if required by federal law — meaning repossession of ceilings. That is why elevators want to deliver the grain and close out the contracts as quickly as possible.

Furthermore, buyers are paying the full price only when the grain arrives. At the outset the former OPA ceiling was paid when, when the box car containing the grain reaches the market, the difference between the ceiling and

DOUBLE ERROR

Hollywood

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, July 18—(AP)—As it must with all child stars, Margaret O'Brien is growing up.

When a movie moppet reaches an advanced age (Margaret is all of nine), she begins to abandon her wide-eyed ways and adopt some glamour. That's what's happening to Margaret.

When I saw her on the set of "Ballerina" she was sporting her first permanent wave. And she was wearing lipstick and a little bit of rouge. She is playing the little role in the film and even her mother expressed surprise at her ability as a dancer.

Margaret interrupted proceedings to announce: "I'm giving up acting—I want to be a dancer."

Mrs. O'Brien confided that her daughter is beginning to show signs of concern about her career. When the waitress brought her lunch, Margaret looked at her mother and asked: "Is this fattening?"

I was about to exclaim "What is Hollywood coming to?" when I chanced to gaze in Margaret's dressing room. There she was with another little girl—playing jacks!

Some glamor girl.

Now look who's fretting about movie censorship—Maria Montez. When I found her languishing on the set of "Pirates of Monterey", she started sounding off about the film snipping Puritans:

"I go to the movies almost every night and it's the same old thing—boy meets girl, boy loses girl—no plot, nothing."

"Everything on the screen is infantile. I don't mean that pictures must be indecent to be adult. But really strong emotions are never seen. There should be two types of pictures—one for minors, the other for adults."

She sounded pretty wrought up about it.

Inflation in Hollywood; Hamburger steak at the Brown Derby has risen $1.10 to $1.50; shrimp curry $1.25 to $1.85. Bhaeres Coburn plays papa Applegate in "Bloomer Girl". John Payne will fly his plane to Roanoke, Va., when he finishes "Razor's Edge". His mother has been ill. Doty Lamour working again and looking very aragable.

In the Film Palace. "To each His Own" (Par—122 minutes) is a weeper, but a surprisingly good one. Ably written, it retells the situation of an unwed mother who loses the affection of her child. John Lund shows star promise and Olivia de Havilland deserves an Academy mention. The film is not for the kiddies, however.

A Thought for Today
Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life, no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me.—John 14:6.

Near, so very near to God,
Nearer I cannot be;
For in the person of His Son
I am as near as He.

More Strange Bedfellows
Incredible though it seems, Mr. Alfred M. Landon and Mr. Vyacheslav M. Molotov are in apparent agreement on one point of international policy. Both are opposed to a decentralized, agrarianized Germany.

Last February Mr. Landon made a speech in which he denounced "the iniquitous Morgenthau plan for defeated Germany," which called for decentralized government and an agrarian economy. Now Mr. Molotov, in presenting Russia's plan for Germany, has rejected such a setup, although he didn't use such blunt words or mention Mr. Morgenthau's name. This brief moment of accord may be coincidence, and one can only guess at the reasons behind it. Mr. Landon may have been thinking only of domestic politics in his denunciation. But he may also have seen in an industrialized and united Germany a buffer, though, naturally, against a different sort of encroachment.

Russia's shift to Mr. Landon's way of thinking (if it may be expressed thus) is rather recent. Earlier it appeared that Russia favored a decentralized Germany. What caused the change can only be guessed at. Reparations may have something to do with the official Russian policy on Germany. Russia suffered deep economic wounds at the Nazi invaders' hands. They will be slow to heal. Certainly she deserves reparations, and as certainly she has received some in the large bites of German territory which she has taken for herself and her close associate, Poland. Yet recently Russia mentioned the sum of $10,000,000,000 for further reparations. If any such sum should be fixed for payment by Germany, and if other sufferers from Nazi aggression should demand and be awarded comparable amounts, an industrialized Germany with a large foreign trade would be indispensable, even though such demands would probably be as ruinous to Germany as an agrarian economy.

As for unification, experience thus far seems to have proved Mr. Landon and Mr. Molotov right. At least, the zone arrangement of German occupation and control hasn't been satisfactory—although Russia seems to have less cause for complaint than the other powers. None of the zones has been entirely self-sufficient. And their hermetic isolation, both economic and political, has been a source of trouble and expense, at least to the western Allies. If occupation is to continue over a long period, as seems likely, a centralized administration of the whole country

New York—Now that the danger has passed and now that a force of American soldiers of Japanese parentage or race have returned from the war with honors, professional political promoters of racial and religious friction who profess to abhor prejudice are exploiting as an act of Hitlerism our mass deportation of 100,000 American-Japanese from the Pacific coast to concentration camps inland in 1942. These people were held in compounds throughout 1943 and were gradually dispersed thereafter, some finding new homes away from the coast and others being deported to Japan as enemy aliens, the rest returning whence they came.

In the current propaganda it would appear that some American authority of fascist mentality is the most logical arrangement.

In general (and on the surface), the Russian plan appears sane and reasonable and offers a promising basis of discussion and eventual agreement. It perceives a source of unrest and danger in an "annihilated" Germany, yet is conscious of the need for inter-Allied policing of German industry.

It favors a centralized Germany, yet promises no objection if, at some future date, a German state should decide by plebiscite to withdraw from that centralized government.

It sees in inter-Allied control of all German industry a fulfillment of the Berlin conference decision to treat Germany as an economic whole—something which needs doing and has not been done to date.

All this emphasizes the possibility of agreement, not the many points of potential conflict. But, at least, the difficulties do not look to be totally insoluble at the moment. And that, after recent experiences, is good news.

committed this outrage contrary to the sense of the nation and the government.

The exclusion and deportation were ordered in emergency by Lieutenant Gen. J. J. DeWitt, commander of the Western Defense under an act of Congress, signed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and upheld by the Supreme court in an opinion by Justice Black. Justice Frankfurter filed a separate opinion, concurring but excused himself by saying that although he found no constitutional forbiddance this did not necessarily mean that he approved the act itself or an executive order by Roosevelt upon which General DeWitt further relied for his authority.

There is now an illusion that an overwhelming majority of the deportees were known to be loyal to the United States. This is a by-product of victory. As far as General DeWitt could tell, all but a few could reasonably be suspected of devotion to Japan and the emperor. The white Americans of California were almost unanimously apprehensive and suspicious and some of them might have mobbed Japanese settlements if they had not been taken away, thus bringing down reprisals on Americans in Japanese captivity.

The term "Japanese" here is a broad one, including loyal native Americans as well as disloyal Americans and unnaturalized natives of Japan.

The impression now being promoted that the majority were obviously patriotic to the United States is false. Early in 1943 the young men of the class known as Kibei, native Americans educated in Japan, were invited to volunteer for the American Army and most of them refused to forswear allegiance to the emperor. They may have been afraid that if they did so their relatives in Japan would be punished but there was no way to determine what their reasons were. Later, some were drafted and thus relieved of the responsibility of decision, how many, and how well they served I never learned. Native Americans who had never seen Japan volunteered in larger numbers but in no great mass, either. The committed this outrage contrary to the sense of the nation and the government.

The exclusion and deportation were ordered in emergency by Lieutenant Gen. J. J. DeWitt, commander of the Western Defense under an act of Congress, signed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and upheld by the Supreme court in an opinion by Justice Black. Justice Frankfurter filed a separate opinion, concurring but excused himself by saying that although he found no constitutional forbiddance this did not necessarily mean that he approved the act itself or an executive order by Roosevelt upon which General DeWitt further relied for his authority.

In fairness, it must be noted that these young Japanese were under no greater obligation than Caucasians and, further in their favor, it must be remembered that they had reason to feel very bitter against the United States. The parents of many had lost property values in farms, machinery shops and stores which they had to abandon suddenly and they realized that Caucasian neighbors on the coast had been alert to the chance to acquire their holdings at distress prices. They and their relatives lived in crowded long houses in the desert, humiliated, suspected and surrounded by wire, with M. P.'s in American uniforms at the gates. The invitation to put on the same uniform was ironic to many of them.

Racial persecution undoubtedly was present here and Justice Black and all the majority were hypocrites in their tortuous finding that racial discrimination or antagonism was not the reason. They squirmed to find that the petitioner in the case on appeal was excluded "because we are at war with the Japanese empire" and because the military authorities, who feared a Japanese invasion, "decided that military urgency demanded that all citizens of Japanese ancestry be segregated from the west coast temporarily."

Under the dictum and Frankfurter's version of the same nonsense, Frankfurter, himself a native of Austria, might have been sent to a desert camp with a clothing allowance of $3.50 a month and pay of $16 a month if he had been willing to do chores about the place. Justice Murphy, in an erratic moment, found himself on the side of intellectual honesty and replied that the exclusion of "all persons of Japanese ancestry, both alien and non-alien in the absence of martial law . . . goes over the very brink of constitutional power and falls into the ugly abyss of racism."

It was a dangerous, hysterical, high-school writing, and characteristic, but true an embarrassing situation due, in part, to the careless importation and admission of Japanese in decades past and the concurrent rise of Japanese ambitions and military power. And it is not unreasonable to reflect that if Japan had invaded the Pacific coast and had won the war many of those who have lately shown loyalty to the United States would have greeted the conquerors and shown them around the American defenses. Japanese are human, and it would be naive to reject the possibility that some of them who now bask in the warmth of the new cordiality, kindled by victory and confidence among us, are not just following the bandwagon. However, American justice is so fastidious that any proposal to indemnify the loyal Japanese in their losses of property and wages during their imprisonment will be adopted with a whoop of spiritual satisfaction.

It seems that we shot a man because we thought he made a pass to draw a gun and then found that he was only reaching for his wallet to show us his driver's license.

So let us buy him a wooden leg and be friends. I don't know any other people who would.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington—Some flailers have rhetorically rolled me over the barrel for reporting recently it does not make much difference whether or not we have treaties of peace cooperatively with Russia, and for telling the story of the old politician whose activities worked out about the same for an enemy as for a friend. These whackers did not understand. They interpreted too generously a passing reference. For Russia is neither friend nor enemy. She is something which exists. To date she has been cooperative with some ventures for a joint world peace, but generally she has been antagonistic. She cannot be converted to our way of life and peace, because she will accept peace only on her own basis. (See Brooks Atkinson in the New York Times after a long and truly objective experience in reporting from Moscow that "the most we can hope for is an armed peace the next few years"). Treaties can amount to much, little or nothing. I am reporting on genuine peace, which is what our people want.

New thought is developing inside here on this subject. As a result of our experience in Paris and in the UN, the thinkers of the administration are clearing their heads of their war propaganda, making Russia out to be something she was not, and are coming to a factual, truthful, realistic viewpoint sooner than the politicians of the administration.

Their refreshed minds are working along these following lines:

How do we get along peacefully in a world with a powerful antagonistic force? Well, how do you get along with an antagonistic neighbor? Some people fight him. Most people do not. To fight him is to waste the energies of both in conflict which may sap your strength and shorten your life even if you are victorious. Most people just ignore him. They plan their lives for their own purposes. If he wants to come in on some things which the community undertakes, let him come in, and give thanks to God that he sees some things right at any rate. If he chooses to remain out or is obstructionist of your community purposes, leave him out. Go ahead and plan as you would, and can.

This reasoning is far more sensational than it may appear to you at first glance. It forecasts a whole about-face from the war propaganda, from the time when it was practically treasonous to doubt that Russia was not our friend, did not go to war to save the world for our kind of democracy, and did not believe in all our freedoms, the freedom of religion, the spirit and the press being most important. It projects a notion of us running beyond treaties to our own full understanding of the basis of them, to maintain our part of the victory in our part of the world, and hope that others come to it—in short, it would mean "an armed peace for the next few years."

Now all the politicians may not hasten to this banner. Truman pointed to the marker at Gettysburg which said: "Peace eternal in a nation united." He moved to amend "nation" to "world." So it should be—but it cannot be. It is idle to lead people to expect this in the face of what we have encountered in UN and at Paris—and are getting daily from the Moscow press. Politicians may wave some treaties saying so. The Prime Minister of Britain waved one such when he got out of his airplane from Munich and announced to the world it meant "peace in our time"—just before Britain went to war, unprepared. Politicians may pretend the state of the world today is what they intend all along, and realism will have no objection, but if they pretend peace has been established in the face of facts which all the world knows, they are entering upon most dangerous ground. For such claims will lead inevitably to disarmament, and disarmament will lead to defeat. If you want the peace, you will have to keep it.

Within this last realm of reality is plenty of room in which politics may safely play without danger or damage, if they wish. But they must not play us into another Pearl Harbor. They must not cut armaments to a point of developing national drowsiness or inability to defend ourselves. They must not give atom bombs loosely, without justification, around the world. They must not scrap armies and navies as they did before. To have peace they must maintain it with constant vigilance.

Perhaps some day the entire world will reach the idealist and natural state of accepting Christian ideals, and by this I mean the ideals of Christ against war, and in favor of turning the other cheek. To date this has proved ineffective for defense of those ideals, if not downright suicidal. Personally I do not believe the day will ever come on this earth, because Christianity in itself is an ideal few men and nations have fully attained, and for that reason, the life of Christ being supernatural, was proved by simple reasoning to be divine. I think His was an ideal for earth which could be approximated in varying degrees by humanity, but not fully attained this side of heaven by the whole earth. I notice a conflict in all nature, and in humanity, which I suspect will be maintained for more than "the next few years." For example, even if you gained world acceptance of Christianity, I think it natural then to expect revolutions—which are wars by another name. But it is our business to keep the ideal there and to maintain it in freedom for all.

For that reason, the growth of reason among men of international authority here—which I herewith report—is all to the good, and a marked advance in the right direction. Abandon the ideal and you must have chaos, dictatorships, unreason. This is why the accomplishments at Paris have shed danger behind them in high places.

Jamestown, N. Y.—(AP)—Mrs. Nora Davis wrote Mayor S. A. Stroth thanking him for prompt action by the city on a request for elimination of poison ivy which spread to her property from an adjoining lot. She added: "I hope that my rose bushes and lawn will grow back next year."

The mayor said he "imagined" that the city employee, using a flame throwing weed eradicator, was over zealous in his work.

EXPLOSIVE SITUATION

Bozecin, Poland—(AP)—Pretty Lodzia Sanowa, 18, often had watched sappers destroy mines. She also had seen peasants killed trying to de-mine their farmlands because they couldn't afford to pay a professional sapper.

There were 400 land mines in a 14-acre tract her father proposed to farm. But de-mining would cost more than he would earn in a year.

So Lodzia went to work on her own, tackling mine by mine, while Polish soldiers looked on and warned her she was heading for death.

Lodzla laughed off their warnings, completed the entire de-mining operation alone—400 mines—and proudly handed over their fuses or detonators to the Polish soldiers.

"HEY there!" a raucous voice shouted. "Want some help?" A grinning face appeared beside Doctor Hallock and that young man stared at the intruder blankly.

"Wh-what?" he asked. "Wh-what did you say?"

"Say, young feller, what ails you? Don't you know you're in the ditch? Or don't it matter?" He grinned wisely and Sally blushed rosily.

"Oh. Sure. The car swerved and—we are in a ditch, aren't we? Will you give us a hand, sir?" the bemused doctor asked, still too dazed by his sudden good fortune to think clearly.

"Sure. I'll get a rope. Sit tight. Won't be a second."

He was as good as his word and it wasn't long until the coupe was back on the road again and the farmer said slyly as he removed the rope, "Better concentrate on one thing at a time, young feller. It's safer that way."

"Thanks!" Jim said, grinning as he held out a cigar to the entirely unappreciated aide. "I could almost wish he had gone on about his business, darling," he said softly to the girl beside him. "He sort of broke the spell—such a lovely spell!"

"But we have to get to the Bacons' for dinner," Sally pointed out.

"Shall we tell them?"

"I don't think it will be necessary," Sally laughed. "We both seem to have fine open countenances. I'm wondering what we are going to do when we get back to Linton. Rules are rules, you know, and you're still a member of the staff."

"To heck with the rules!" he scoffed. "I'm going to tell Sunderlin first thing in the morning. But I'm wondering how your aunt will feel about me—if she still considers you bound to young Canfield."

"Don't!" Sally cried, shrinking away from him. "Please—please don't talk about him—"

FOR a long moment Jim Hallock drove in silence. His face had lost some of its color and his mouth was grim. Sally stole a glance at him and suddenly wanted to cry.

They approached the lake and the young man said softly: "You still love that fellow, don't you? Or you think you do. Then where do I come in? Where does that leave us?"

"No. No, Jim," Sally whispered, choked with a feeling of guilt. "I don't love him—not at all. It—it was a bad time in my life. I—I want to forget it." Oh, why had she ever resorted to such deceit? She asked herself that question over and over in the split second that Jim Hallock took to park the car beneath an overhanging apple tree and turn to take her in his arms.

"That suits me perfectly, Sally Maynard," he told her with conviction. "And now, will you marry me at once—before I leave or—"

"Aunt Clem won't approve of that, Jim," she told him, rubbing her cheek against his shoulder.

"But it isn't Aunt Clem I'm wanting to marry, Sally. How about you? Do you disapprove of wartime marriages? I'll be leaving in less than a month and we could have a little time to—"

"But the hospital, dear," she reminded him.

"I know; but during wartime hospitals can't be too finicky. You're practically indispensable to Linton and they know it. I doubt if they will object because you're married. And in my case—Carolyn has at long last been asked to join the staff. Did you know that? Well, about our marriage. Is that your only objection, Sally? Not afraid?"

"AFRAID, Jim?" she whispered and was suddenly struck with the memory of Richard Gregory's letter. She sat up abruptly. She was a coward as well as a liar. She was using Jim's love for her as a cloak—a protection against Blair Canfield's visit. She met his questioning look with one of pleading. "Perhaps it would be wiser to wait until after the war, darling," she said. "After all, we don't really know each other very well and—"

"Then you are afraid," he countered, his arms dropping from her shoulders.

"Sally caught the arm nearest her in a fierce grip. "Don't you dare hint at such a thing, Jim Hallock!" she cried. "I wasn't thinking of myself at all. I was thinking of you—wondering if you really know me well enough. After all—"

His kiss was proof of his conviction that he knew his own mind. That he loved her better than anything in the world and that nothing else mattered.

"That's settled," he said and signed in relief. "Tomorrow evening we'll go see your Aunt Clem, Sally, and break the news to her. After all, she should be the first to know, I suppose. I hope she approves of me, darling."

"She will," the girl said, with a conviction she wasn't too sure was warranted. After all, Aunt Clem knew very little about Jim Hallock. In fact, Sally told herself, she didn't know very much herself. She only knew she loved him and asked nothing better of life than to spend it with him.

The supervisory agreement carried a stipulation that in event J. & L. refuses to place it in effect the UMW will file a "refusal to bargain" charge with NLRB so the "company may have an opportunity to obtain a final judicial determination" of the supervisor's rights under the National Labor Relations Act.

One provision specifies that the agreement is to be terminated if "applicable legislation" should nullify NLRB's present position regarding supervisory workers. This provision apparently referred to recent demands in congress for legislation to outlaw unionization of foremen and other supervisors, although prospects for enactment of any such legislation this year appear remote.

Truman Opposed to Missouri Democrat

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—President Truman said today he will take the political stump for Democratic congressional candidates this year if he can be of service.

He told his news conference, however, that no specific plans for a speaking tour had been made. He said he did not know whether he would speak in New York.

Truman expressed outright opposition to the renomination of one Democratic house member—Rep. Roger C. Slaughter of the Fifth Missouri district.

He has asked James Prendergast, Kansas City political leader, to support Enos Axtell, Slaughter's opponent, Truman said, adding that Prendergast would do so.

The president had no comment to make on the defeat of Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) in his race for renomination. Truman intervened in the Wheeler campaign with a letter defending Wheeler against charges by his opponent that he was an enemy of railway labor.

Saying that as a member of the house rules committee, Slaughter had opposed just about every piece of legislation he had advocated, the president asserted bluntly, if Slaughter is right, I'm wrong.

Asked About Primary

The political talk began with a question as to what the president planned to do about the Missouri primary.

He replied that he was going home to vote August 6.

Then he was asked what about Slaughter, who represents the district adjoining the one in which Truman lives.

Without hesitation, he said he was against Slaughter, that if Slaughter was right, he, the president, was wrong.

Had he conferred with Prendergast about Slaughter?

Truman replied that he had, and added that he didn't think Prendergast will be for Slaughter. He said he certainly did ask Prendergast to endorse Axtell.

A reporter took the questioning away from Missouri briefly to ask if he would speak in behalf of Democratic nominees in the fall campaign.

Support for Hannegan

He said if it becomes necessary to do so, he would do all that he could during the campaign to help the Democratic party.

Truman took occasion to reaffirm his strong support of Chairman Robert E. Hannegan of the Democratic national committee.

He said he would go home August 3 by plane and fly back after the primary voting, taking Mrs. Truman with him. He added he had no other vacation plans.

When the president was asked if he had ever met Slaughter's opponent, he replied that he knew him well, that he was a neighbor of his.

A reporter then asked if he would supply Axtell's first name.

The president pondered a moment, and replied Emmett or Edward—and then asked a Missouri reporter, The Missouri reporter supplied the name "Enos."

"That's right," the president reported.

day, said the committee also will decide what action to take on the non-appearance of Murray Garsson. Garsson was one of the promoters of the Erie Basin Metal Products Company of Elgin, Ill., and Batavia Metal Products Company of Batavia, Ill., leading companies in the munitions setup.

Committee Dissatisfied

The chairman told newsmen that the committee is "not satisfied with Garsson's statement that he is unable to leave Havana because of ill health, and will consult with its chief counsel, George Meader, as to the legal possibilities in connection with both Garsson and May."

Testimony concerning May's inquiry about $3,000 was offered yesterday by Mrs. Eleanor Hall, one of the two pretty ex-secretaries of the combines Washington office who sprinkled the committee's record with references to members of Congress and high-ranking Army officers.

The other was Mrs. Jean Bates. Mrs. Bates confined her testimony chiefly to naming persons who had figured in telephone conversations with her bosses, Garsson and Joseph Freeman, the Washington representative of the munitions firms.

Called "Bunch of Crooks"

Mrs. Hall had a lengthier story to tell, she began it by characterizing her former employers as "a bunch of crooks."

It was Mrs. Hall's testimony, which included frequent references to Louis Sarel, manager of the munitions combine's Washington office, that precipitated a noisy scene at the hearing ended.

AS Mrs. Hall was leaving the stand with a commendation from Meader for "patriotic service," a woman spectator arose and began shouting denunciations of the witness' testimony.

The woman was seized by police and led struggling from the room. She told newsmen her name is Mrs. Vanetha Sarel, Douglas and that she is an elder sister of the "sensitive souled" Sarel.

To Notes of Talk

Mrs. Hall told the committee the reference to $3,000 came when May telephoned Freeman "about lumb" and finally "said rather gruffly to Mr. Freeman: 'what about that $3,000?'"

"What did Mr. Freeman reply?" she was asked.

"It would be along in a day or so—as I remember some kind of assurance that it was coming," Mrs. Hall replied. She told the committee she had been requested to listen in on the conversation and take notes.

May told her during one visit to the office, she said, to be careful "because the wires may be tapped."

Mrs. Hall had a lengthier story to another telephone conversation, between Freeman and E. M. Glazier, treasurer of one of the firms in the combine, during which Freeman asked:

"What about that piece of paper?"

May Called "Yankel"

Glazier replied, "what piece of paper—or something like that," she said.

"You know what I mean," she quoted Freeman as saying, "the $1,000 for Yankel."

Committee counsel said "Yankel" was Yiddish for "Jacob" or "Little Jack" and was usually used as meaning "not too smart."

"Mrs. Hall said her employers frequently referred to May as 'Yankel'."

Glazier, Mrs. Hall said, promised to put a check for $1,000 in the mail the next day. On another occasion, she related, Sarel came into the office carrying an envelope to pass on to Freeman, saying it contained $1,000 and was going "to the hill."

Mrs. Bates listed Senator Capehart (R-Ind) as one of several members of congress to whom calls were placed from the office.

Capehart went before the committee shortly afterward and testified that about three months ago he received a call making an appointment for Murray Garsson to see him about licenses for manufacturing of automatic phonographs. Capehart said he referred Garsson to his New York attorney and did not discuss any government business with him.

Italians Protesting Trieste Agreement

Rome, July 18.—(AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi, expressing disappointment in "American promises," said today he feared the new Italian republic would fall in Trieste were internationalized as recommended by the four-power foreign ministers council.

The premier described the Trieste compromise as a "solution" which satisfied neither Italy nor Yugoslavia, and said that Italy was pinning her hopes on the forthcoming Paris peace conference to veto the internationalization proposal.

"Italy expended 600,000 casualties in the last war defending Trieste," he said in an interview. "I have a very great fear that the new republican government will not survive if the compromise is formalized at the peace conference."

(A dispatch from Belgrade quoted Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj as telling the Yugoslav parliament that his government "cannot and will not agree to the Paris settlement of the Trieste question.")

The important Adriatic port is claimed by both Italy and Yugoslavia.

The premier said that his countrymen were very disappointed with "American promises" which caused Italy to wage war on the side of the allies.

"When the Americans entered Italy, we were told that if we fought beside you that this and that and the other thing would be considered in the final peace treaties," he said. "Instead, what? We lose Trieste, an Italian city."

A-Bomb Legislation in

House for Long Fight

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—Atomic energy legislation reaches a vote in the house today, with some of its most ardent supporters conceding "trouble" ahead.

While there seems to be only a slim chance that the legislation will be killed outright, a fight over the issue of civilian versus military control continued unabated.

The first test comes on a house military committee recommendation that at least one of the five members of the proposed atomic energy control commission be a representative of the armed forces and that the director of military uses of the new energy be a military man.

In making that recommendation the committee overrode provisions of a senate bill—endorsed by President Truman—setting up a five-member civilian control commission and topping the military application division with a civilian.

Administration leaders said they would fight all the committee amendments and try to push through the legislation in the exact form it passed the senate.

Cantaloupes, Melons,

To Exceed '45 Output

Springfield, Ill., July 18.—(AP)—Indicated 1945 production of Illinois cantaloupes, watermelons and early and late summer tomatoes will exceed last year's harvest, the state-federal agriculture departments reported today.

The cantaloupe crop was estimated at 117,000 crates, about 30 per cent above 1945's yield and slightly above the ten year (1935-1944) average.

The late summer tomato crop made good progress in June to overcome slow growth during May. Outlook for this year's crop is 390,000 bushels, or 76,000 above last year.

The early summer tomato crop, despite some deterioration in the latter part of last month, was forecast at 65,000 bushels, slightly above 1945's harvest.

Indicated watermelon production was 1,300,000 melons, one sixth above last year but about six per cent below the ten year average.

The departments forecast smaller snap bean and cabbage crops than in 1945.

INSECTS ON DISPLAY

Springfield, Ill. (AP)—Twenty-thousand insects from deadly tarantulas and multi-colored butterflies, to ferocious-looking beetles nine inches long, will be displayed at the Illinois State Fair here Aug. 9-18.

More than 100 fishing lakes and 70 fishing streams are located in Medicine Bow National Forest, in southeastern Wyoming.

Two Twilight Games Slated Here

Reynolds Plays at Hospital; Amboy to Battle Merchants

Reynolds Field Clash to Mark First Meeting of Amboy, Locals

Holding a Twilight league string of two straight in the second half, Reynolds goes to the State Hospital tonight to strengthen its grip on first place and to help the hospitalmen inaugurate the league's second half race there.

Meanwhile, the Merchants get back into action, their first of the new chase, when they face Amboy's entry tonight at Reynolds field. Amboy dropped an 8 to 3 decision to Reynolds at Reynolds field last week in their Twilight circuit debut here.

Roberts & Hess Idle

Roberts & Hess, charged with one loss in the second half, is idle this week.

The meeting between Amboy and the Merchants will be the first of the year, may produce some fireworks since both clubs have shown more than once this year they have some power wrapped in their lineups.

The Merchants, off to a fine start this spring, were hit hard by injuries and other losses to the team and suffered a prolonged losing streak which dropped them out of championship contention in the first half race as well as in the Midwest league's Eastern division.

But with the addition of new blood in recent weeks, notably Clarence Kelly and Don Valle, they have shown signs of making a strong comeback. The loss of Kelly, who injured his knee two weeks ago running out an extra-base hit, was the most recent blow to their chances.

Hospital Tough Sunday

Amboy's troubles this season have fallen mainly in the defensive department, where they were bothered by erratic pitching earlier in the year and a none-too-certain defensive array. Led by southpaw Tom Powers, however, their slab performances have leveled off somewhat recently.

Reynolds will go against the State Hospital with the same array which has been meeting with success regularly in these parts, but may need all the strength that crew can muster if the hospital's performance of last Sunday is any indication. Walton, Western division leader in the Midwest league scramble, recent conqueror of Reynolds, came off with a hot men here last week.

Cubs Gain in Race as Cards, Dodgers Falter Under Arcs

Reds and Phils Prove Too Tough; Rizzuto Beamed by Potter

(By The Associated Press)

Brooklyn's dismal slump and the Cardinals' habit of losing to the Phillies is leaving the door wide open for the Chicago Cubs in the National league pennant scramble.

Although the Dodgers still rule Ford Frick's roost by a half game many baseball men believe the real 1946 race in September will find the Cards and Cubs battling for the flag.

Counted out of the race and rated "just another wartime club" in the early spring calculations, the Bruins today are a strong third, breathing hard on the necks of the St. Louis Red Birds and only 3 1/2 games out of first place.

Chipman Hurls Shutout

The Cubs made ground yesterday by drubbing the Braves, 10-0, in the afternoon and then watching both the Brooks and Cards bow under the arcs. Bob Chipman's six-hit shutout performance, his first win in over a month, added another cheery note to the Chicago situation.

St. Louis once again refused to take advantage of a chance to regain the lead they hadn't hold all by themselves since May 19. Ron Northey belted two home runs and Andy Seminick added one with the bases cleared to give Oscar Judd a 10-1 early margin. The lefty faded in the last two rounds and had to call in relief help from Charlie Schanz and Dick Mulligan to save the 10-7 decision.

It was the fifth time in 11 meetings the Phils had beaten the Birds.

Bums Throw It Away

Brooklyn staggered to a fifth successive setback at Cincinnati, 5-2. Their seventh defeat in eight starts on the current western tour. Young Hank Behrman appeared to have a 2-1 triumph in his pocket until the Dodger defense collapsed in the four-run eighth to give Bucky Walters his sixth decision.

Rookie Ralph Kiner sunk the New York Giants with a three-run homer and two singles behind Pittsburgh's Nick Strincevich, 6-5. Mel Ott tried everything, starting relief artist Ken Trinkle and relieving successfully with Red Kress, the 39-year-old coach, and Johnny Gee who hadn't pitched a ball all season.

New Attendance Mark

All major league attendance records went by the boards at the Yankee stadium when the New Yorkers lured 30,159 paying guests to boost the season high to 15,101, 934. The best previous mark was 148,516 attained by the Chicago Cubs and that for an entire season.

Incidentally the Yanks won two from St. Louis, 3-2 and 8-4 but remained 11 full games behind Boston which dumped Chicago twice, 3-1 and 6-1. Most important development of the day to the Yanks was the accidental "beating" of shortstop Phil Rizzuto by Nelson Potter. Rizzuto was carried from the field and spent the night in New York hospital under observation.

Jimmy Outlaw's 12th inning double enabled Detroit to trim Washington 3-2 for Al Benton's first success since April 18.

Alie Reynolds got victory No. 5 on the record by subduing the Philadelphia Athletics with five blows, 8-2.

Reynolds' triumph lifted the Cleveland Indians into fifth place in the American league.

The St. Louis Cardinals scored only one run after the fifth inning during the entire World Series of 1943.

Bulla Tops Victory National's List as Meet's "Hot" Entry

Equals Club Record on First-Round 67; Tells of British Failure

Chicago, July 18.—(AP)—Big Johnny Bulla, who claims his heart was broken when he blew the British Open title, is the hottest swinger in the Chicago Victory National golf tournament which ends some fancy preliminaries at Medinah country club.

Bulla minimized a scorching 67 he blasted yesterday as a conglomerate field of the nation's top professionals, amateurs and women players launched a 36-hole scrap for pro-amateur, pro-lady and pro-senior titles.

Fails in England

"I played my biggest tournament—and lost it over in England a couple of weeks ago," boomed Bulla, whose four-under-par performance on Medinah's 6,929-yard No. 3 course equalled the club record. "I wake up nights thinking about those last three green I three-putted to hand he British Open title to Sammy Snead."

But the other top-notch pros, who Friday will swing into the $10,000 Victory Open, are wary of air pilot Johnny. Bulla, famed for his fast starts and fading finishes, has shown signs of becoming a rugged finisher. Last weekend he was the top pro behind winner Frank Stranahan, Toledo amateur, in the $20,000 Kansas City Invitational.

Hogan, Suggs Shine

By wrapping together a 34 and 33 yesterday, Bulla hoisted Al Anderson of Medinah, Ill., with a 40-41-81, into the 18-hole lead in the pro-senior running. His simon-pure partner, Illinois state champion, Earl Wilde, of Chicago, contributed a 79 for a 146 total. This was only four strokes off the pace set by Lawson Little (72) and Amateur George Dawson (70).

The pro-lady leadership was held by Ben Hogan and Louise Suggs, newly-crowned Women's Western Open titlist, with 148, thanks to a phenomenal round of 75 by the poker-face lass from Lithia Springs, Ga.

The pre-tourney favorites, who may be saving their shots for the 72-hole proper, were finding Medinah a good day's work. Defending Victory Open champion Byron Nelson opened with a 74, while Stranahan posted 72. U. S. Open champion Lloyd Mangrum settled for a 75, while leading-money winner Hogan had 73.

Besides Bulla and top amateur Dawson, the only other player to squeeze under par 71 was Harold (Jug) McSpaden with 37-33-70.

Pairings for the Men's Two-Ball Foursome tournament at Dixon country club were posted early this week and first round matches are now being played and are to be completed by July 21. Milt Hull and Joe Miller disposed of Bob Krug and Lee Shoaf, 2 up and 1 to play, and Fred Chiverton and Mel Cook bested the Carl Plovman-Gerry Arnold combination by a 3 and 2 margin.

The headline match of the week involved Willard Jones and Arnie Lund who held Ken Detweiler and Harry Kerz to an 18 hole tie, only to lose on a 9 hole play-off by a single stroke. It is reported that the Detweiler-Kerz team escaped disaster in the first match only after receiving timely assistance from "Inky," the storehouse black cat, who dashed madly across the fairways and directly into the path of the unfortunate Lund as he was about to make a critical shot to the 18th green.

Several pairs have advanced automatically to the second round in the 2-ball tourney by drawing a "bye" in the first match. First round must be completed this week so that later rounds will not be delayed.

Plans are being perfected for the Aug. 1 men's "Play Day" at the country club and a fine program is promised for that event.

Minnesota Opens Grid Drills; Large Turnout

Minneapolis, July 18.—(AP)—Bernie Bierman, whose first post-war football team at Minnesota finished well down in the Big Ten standings is getting an early start these days on his 1946 squad.

Bierman and his staff, minus Lowell "Red" Dawson, backfield coach last year who has joined the pro ranks, have been working quietly this summer, getting a line on prospective players and mapping strategy.

A call for the opening of fall practice has been issued, setting Aug. 26 as the reporting date, with a large turnout expected.

Army Golf Tourney in Third Round at Paris

Paris, July 18.—(AP)—U. S. Army golfers from seven major commands headed into the third round of the European Theater championships at St. Cloud today with Pvt. Mathew Cisowski of Glenwood, Ill., two strokes ahead of the field.

The former Glenwood country club pro added an 80 to his first round 78 to hang onto the lead with a 36-hole total of 158 in the 72-hole medal play tournament.

Low scorers included: John Gostisha (rank unavailable); of Waukegan, Ill., with 162; Capt. Park Brown of Evanston, Ill., 167 and Warrant Officer Elsun Hodges of Decatur, Ill., 169.

Lions Sportsmanship Award Goes to Mack

Philadelphia, July 18.—(AP)—Connie Mack, 83-year-old owner of the last-place Philadelphia Athletics, today will receive the 1946 Sportsmanship award of Lions International, holding its annual convention here.

Convention officials said the award is "in recognition of all of Mr. Mack's past achievements." They said Mack would receive it at Shibe park before this afternoon's game with the Cleveland Indians.

WEALTH REDISTRIBUTED
A recent list of high-salaried individuals in the United States disclosed that Leo McCarey, a motion picture director, was paid
$1,113,035 for his services in 1945.
Many thousands of Americans doubtless envied a man who "enjoyed" such an income.

All the fancy-figure incomes thus publicized, however, were before federal taxes. Mr. McCarey's net after paying Uncle Sam $1, 021,070, thus, was only $91,965.
So he worked ten times as hard for the Treasury as he did for himself.

In addition, California, where
Mr. McCarey works, has a state income tax, and that levy must have taken a large bite out of the $91,965 which the Treasury let him keep.

Talk of redistributing the wealth seems pretty academic. We have been engaged in that process for more than a decade.

Navy Youngsters Carry Fate of 2nd Bikini Test Fleet

Aboard Flagship Mt. McKinley, July 18—(AP)—The fate of some of the guinea pig ships in the atomic bomb tests in Bikini lagoon rests upon the word of a dozen junior officers.

These youngsters—lieutenants and ensigns whose average age is 22 years—are the radiological monitors, the men who venture into the atom-bombed target areas to decide whether water and ships are "hot" with deadly radioactivity.

Their Word Counts

Ships set afire or broken by the bomb test may burn or settle toward the sinking point, but until the monitors decide they are safe to board, no salvage party may fight the fire or seal off flooding holds.

Their chiefs, Col. Stafford Warren and Cmdr. Draper L. Kaufman, send along word to the task force high command only after they have had the reports and recommendations of the monitors. The lads all volunteered for their dangerous jobs.

Lt. (jg) Francis A. Carrier of Pawtucket, R.I., says the first test produced no difficulties. He hopes the second will be as easy to monitor, but isn't sure.

Expect Much Debris

For one thing, Carrier says the expected extensive destruction of test Baker probably will produce large amounts of floating debris—a hazard both from radiological and navigational standpoints. Moreover, ships torn loose from moorings may drift haphazardly. Monitor team leaders say their men generally exhibit little apprehension over their jobs.

However, Lt. (jg) William B. Davis of Gallatin, Mo., says he has one man who "keeps one eye on his steering wheel and the other on the Geiger counter, and just about dies if the needle starts swinging over on the counter. He's going home to get married after this is over."

Team leaders include Ensign Dan J. Voth, Mt. Sterling, Ill.

State Republicans Take Voters' Census

Springfield, Ill., July 18—(AP)—Illinois Republican leaders plan a voters' census to qualify for the Nov. 5 election an estimated 20 per cent of the state's otherwise eligible voters who are either unregistered or improperly registered.

Party workers will conduct a statewide door to door canvass to seek unregistered voters and urge them to register.

The drive was mapped yesterday at a meeting attended by Governor Green, Republican county chairmen and state central committee members.

Under a 1943 law, citizens this year will be unable to vote by executing an affidavit at polling places, heretofore possible.

They either must register at the county clerk's office or at the board of election commissioners before October 8, or register on that date at precinct polling places.

At the discretion of county boards of supervisors or city election boards, however, polling places also may be opened for registration Sept. 21.

Dangerous

Seattle — (AP) — While Frank Kuhlman, 33, was waiting for a bus, he coughed. His lower plate jumped out of place and got stuck crosswise, biting him on the tongue.

Spectators called police, who rushed Kuhlman to a hospital where several sutures were taken in his gashed tongue.

Educator's Wife Dead After River Tragedy

Algonquin, Ill., July 18—(AP)—Mrs. Susan Majewski, 49, wife of Bernard Majewski, vice president of the Chicago school board and vice president of the Deep Rock oil company, was drowned last night in the Fox river when a motorboat turned suddenly and threw her out.

The accident occurred near the Majewski summer home at Twin Oaks, three miles north of the McHenry county community.

Mrs. Keith J. Fanshier, 45, of Lake Bluff, Ill., wife of the petroleum editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, also was thrown out of the boat but was rescued and revived. The boat was piloted by Frank Libase, stage and night club comedian.

Reds Proud of Dnepr Dam; Think of A-Bomb

Dnepr Dam, July 15—(Delayed)—(AP)—Feodor Loginov, in charge of the reconstruction of the Dnepr dam, began a press conference here today by explaining that Russians proudly considered the dam to be one of the first great construction achievements of their nation.

"And," he added softly, "I hope no atomic bombs will destroy it."

Farm Hands Wallop Milwaukee Brewers

Eau Claire, Wis., July 18—(AP)—The Northern league Eau Claire Bears walloped their parent club, the Milwaukee Brewers, 20-2 in an exhibition game here last night.

The Bears, third place squad in the Northern loop, knocked two Milwaukee pitchers from the mound in collecting a total of 22 hits, while two Eau Claire hurlers held the Brewers to eight safeties.

Odorous

Los Angeles—(AP)—Judge Walter Gates found on his calendar a case in which a man was charged with stealing 27,800 pounds of garlic.

"People might say that this case smells," observed the judge. "At least the prosecution has a strong case," rejoined Deputy District Attorney Harry Johnstone. The trial was set for Sept. 4.

Moving

Hayward, Calif.—(AP)—The OPA was given an eviction notice here today.

Because the organization is dead or dying, Mayor John Harr asked that it move from its $50-a-month city hall office and find smaller quarters.

Jackpot

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—Ruth Farley, stepping on a sidewalk scale to weigh, hit the jackpot when she inserted her penny and the machine coughed 200 cents at her.

The store proprietor rushed out to sweep up the pennies and assured Miss Farley it was not one of those weighing machines which gives you your "fortune."

Cunningham to London on Palestine Problem

Jerusalem, July 18—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner for Palestine, departed by plane for London today for conferences with

VA Sends Patient to Decatur; No Hospital

Decatur, Ill., July 18.—(AP)—Fay Ickes, directors of the Alacon county veterans center plans a protest to "appropriate" Washington officials for what he termed the "gross inefficiency" of the Veterans administration in sending a former WAVE tuberculosis patient to Decatur, although there were no facilities here for her care.

Ickes said he considered it possible that VA headquarters in Washington thought a veterans hospital, authorized for Decatur, had been completed. Construction has not yet started on it, he added.

He said that VA headquarters telegraphed him to meet former WAVE Marilyn Ross of East St. Louis, Ill., who with an attendant, arrived by train Monday night from Corona, Calif., naval

Meditate to Avert Walk-out by I. C. Workers

Chicago, July 18.—(AP)—Mediation efforts continued today in an effort to avert a strike on the Illinois Central railroad called by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for 10 a. m. Sunday.

Ordinarily, under the procedure of the Railway Labor act, strikes are postponed 30 or more days pending mediation efforts.

Thomas E. Vickers of the national mediation board, called in by the railroad, said he "made contacts" yesterday with representatives of the road and trainmen and planned to continue his efforts today. He reported "no hospital."

During the recent nation-wide rail strike, the IC was the only class one railroad in the country exempted because it was under government operation at the time of the strike call. Since, the road has been returned to private management.

ATTENTION!

Regardless of the outcome of the Office of Price Administration, it will be our earnest desire to hold all prices to the present basis. This policy will be altered only when and if our costs increase because of advanced manufacturers costs. The dropping of price controls as of mid-June 30 does not change our attitude. Excessive profiteering during these serious days would be most un-American. Thank You.

Five Nazis to Die for Beating, Killing Fliers

Washington, July 18.—(AP)—A wartime "death march" of seven American fliers on the German island of Borkum in the North sea two years ago has been brought to light.

The seven, crewmen of a bomber which was forced down on the island August 4, 1944, were beaten as they were forced to march through the streets, and then were shot and killed by Nazi soldiers, the War department disclosed.

For the war crime, four German officers and men and the mayor of Borkum were sentenced to hang at a court martial trial at Ludwigsburg, in the American occupied zone of Germany, and nine other individuals were sentenced to prison. The chief of the local air raid police, Klase Meyer-Gerhards, was acquitted on evidence that he tried vainly to protect the Americans.

Rockford Man Faces Extortion Charges

Decatur, Ill., July 18.—(AP)—Orville Rohr, 26, of Rockford, held today in Macon county jail, was charged with threatening to extort money from a 21-year-old Decatur woman by use of "corn promising" photographs.

Assistant State's Attorney Percy Lupton said Dorothy Jane Mix related in a complaint that Rohr had obtained some "compromising" photographs of her in Rockford, and had threatened to turn them over to police or to her father if she failed to pay him $1,000.

Lupton said Rohr demanded that Miss Mix obtain the $1,000 from her father under the pretense that she needed it to settle auto collision damages which Lupton said were faked.

Rohr was under $500 bond in Rockford on an assault charge accusing him of beating his wife, Lupton said.

Recall Effort Fails in San Francisco Voting

San Francisco, July 18.—(AP)—Roger D. Lapham still is mayor of San Francisco. A recall movement to oust the former steamship company executive failed in light balloting Tuesday—73,673 for the recall, 105,742 against.

The recall movement, dating back to the Lapham-approved increase this spring of street car fares from seven to ten cents, was sponsored by a group led by Henry F. Budde, publisher of neighborhood weekly throw-away newspapers.

Lapham is a 62-year-old former steamship lines executive who left a $30,000-a-year job to take over the mayoralty at $10,000.

INDIAN BELIEF

Desert Indians have a legend that when a dishonest Indian dies, a tiny saguaro cactus containing the Indian's soul begin to grow, and not until the plant grows up, dies and decays, is the soul set free and permitted to leave this earth. A saguaro may live 150 years.

To obtain maximum efficiency from the motors and for the sake of passenger comfort, it is customary for passenger transports, flying at an altitude of from 8000 to 12,000 feet on the transcontinental air routes, to begin to descend when they are about 100 miles from an airport.

Tented arches, plain loops, whorls and deltas are terms pertaining to fingerprints.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it causes nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sensations shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubers flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
